

Project Study : Independent Project : Information Design

Project Study is about the design of information. Communication of data is a vital characteristic of graphic design. This quarter you will create a research project that demonstrates your understanding of the principles of information design. The project can be based on research or collected data.

week two: brainstorm project ideas (at least 5 viable) week three: select idea and write design brief week five: printed research, bibliography and

.pdf for presentation

week nine: digital comps due- in process critique week ten: rough prints due- in process critique week eleven: final projects due